Tying a Knot in Stretch Cord

Tie a double knot. Before and after tying each knot half, stretch the ends of the cord to pull the elastic tight. Secure the knots with a dot of clear nail polish or craft glue. Trim excess cord when dry.

The Lark’s Head

Good for many purposes, the Lark’s head is also an easy way to hang a pendant. Fold your cord in half, pass it through the hole, from front to back, bring the ends of the cord through the loop then pull it tight.

Overhand Knot

Of course you know this one. It’s call an overhand knot.
